One of the most destructive moments in our lives is failure. When we work hard and keep faith with clear heart and soul to accomplish something and fail, it will surely have negative consequences for our lives. When we fail, life turns upside down. Everything seems to disappear into thin air. However, most people don't realise that failure acts as a stepping-stone towards success. They don't know that we can learn more about our lives when we fail. Throughout history, there have been many famous people who had once the greatest failures in their lives, but later they could learn from their experience and were able to reach the top. Thomas Edison is by far one of the most famous inventors in history. He holds 1,093 patents to his name. However, when attempting to invent a commercially-viable electric light bulb, he failed over 10,000 times. When asked by a reporter how it felt to fail so many times, he merely stated, "I have not failed 10,000 times. I have not failed once. I have succeeded in proving that those 10,000 ways will not work. When I have eliminated the ways that will not work, I will find the way that will work. Albert Einstein, one of the greatest thinkers of our time, didn't speak until he was four-years old. And, even his father, up until the time of his death, considered his son to be a major failure. After eventually graduating from college, Einstein actually worked as an insurance salesman, but quit after some time because he failed at that as well

II-Read the following text then choose the correct answer A, B, C or D: (50 marks)

Human life is constantly bounded with making decisions. Decisions have fundamental roles in doing anything. The reason why it's so important to make a decision is because when someone makes a decision, that person should choose one from many alternatives, or at least two things: the best and the bad one. A decision could mean taking action to choose a selection, one step closer to achieving a goal or expectation. However, most of the time, people make decisions based on their characteristics. Since everyone has different characteristics, it's normal for the results of someone's decision to be different from another person's, even if they have the same problem and need to decide how to solve it. But there's something unique about decisions. People who never make decisions can't expect anything. As I mentioned before, a decision is an action that helps choose one step towards an expectation. And people who can't expect something they want are empty individuals. Expectation is the energy that drives someone to take a forward step in their life. Without it, they become stagnant. It's a pity because expectation is so important for human life. It can bring happiness when expectations are met and can make someone more enthusiastic about living their life when they can fulfill their expectations. But all of this is tightly connected with making decisions. Without making decisions, all expectations are just expressions and words.
